SHORT TALKS WITH GUESTS AT THE HOTELS.

"From what I have observed of the Cubans they are not ready to run their own Government," said Colonel John O'Day, the Springfield magnate, who is at the Planters Hotel. Mr. O'Day just returned from a trip to Cuba and Florida points, where he had been in the hope that his health might be benefited. Mr. O'Day is somewhat 'mproved physically, but he has lost considerable flesh.

"The Cubans are waiting to get control of the island so they may loot it at their leisure," continued Mr. O'Day. "They are a crafty people. Being formerly Seminole Indians or belonging to that race and mixed with Spanish blood, they are as crafty as can be found anywhere. If the Platt amendment is not carried out they will have Cuba bonded to the last dollar inside of five years. That is all they are waiting for. That is why they are so bitterly op-posed to the amendment. It will take the power to issue bonds out of their hands. There are hundreds of keen speculators back of this talk opposing annexation. They simply desire to get as much out of the island as they can. They are there now, watching developments as a wolf watches its prey. The better class of people in Cuba

—I mean the people who own property and are interested in the future developmentare anxious for annexation. That, in my opinion, is the only solution of the ques-tion, and the United States will have to resume control sooner or later. A man from Memphis put the top sheaf on a tale of the States which a group of travelers were spinning at the Planters Hotel Saturday. It concerned Colonel Ewing, a prominent attorney at Memphis and is vouched for by the narrator.

"Ewing," said he, "was a candidate for the nomination for Supreme Judge in Tennessee. He campaigned the State thoroughly and finally got into the mountain end. At one place he came up with old Bill Jones, Jones was a character in his locallty and considered a political wiseacre by his neighbors. The only fault he had was a defection in his hearing. To remedy this he carried an ear trumpet. When Ewing met Jones he came up to him standing alone on his front porch. He got off his horse and walked up to the citizen, making some re-mark about it being a pleasant day. No response greeted him and he tried it again. "'Nice day, looks as if we would have a big crop,' said he. Again no response came and Ewing was beginning to worry. Jones apparently paid no attention to him until Ewing began to yell at the top of his voice. He reached around under his coat as if to He reached around under his coat as if to draw a weapon. Ewing saw the act and thought he would have a tussel for his life. Throwing his arms around Jones he sought to tear the pistol from his hands. They wrestled for some time until a neighbor came up. He pulled Ewing off Jones's back and asked what the trouble was about. Jones, after he had been relieved of the weight, turned to his neighbor and remarked that he, Ewing, must be crazy to jump upon him. Ewing said Jones was about to draw a pistol, and as he said that Jones reached into his pocket and drew out his ear trumpet. Ewing laughed long and loud after apologies had been made, and he got Bill Jones's vote."

BREWERS DECIDE NOT TO PAY BACK FEES.

Assign as a Reason the Delay of the Supreme Court in Ruling on the Case.

COMPROMISE DECLARED OFF.

State Was to Receive About $220, 000 in Settlement of Taxes to Date and Fees Were to Be Reduced.

Delay on the part of the Missouri Supreme Court in ruling on the motion for a new trial in the case involving the validity of the beer inspection law has caused the attorneys for the brewers of the State to decide that they will not pay the amount of inspection fees, estimated on a basis of 19 cents per barrel of beer sold since the law went into effect.

Monday being the last day of the thirty days given Governor Dockery to make settlement with the brewers in a bill passed by the General Assembly, it was believed that some action would be taken towards making a settlement. Judge H. S. Priest stated Sunday night, however, that Governor Dockery has not signed this bill. Judge nor Dockery has not signed this bill. Judge Priest is one of the attorneys for the brewers and, with others, represented them in the case before the Supreme Court.

"If there were any authority on which we could pay this money," said Judge Priest, "some action might be taken. The validity of the law providing for an inspection fee on beer passed by the General Assembly two years ago has not been fully determined by the Missouri Supreme Court because it has not passed upon our motion for a rehearing. Had it done so, and had Governor Dockery signed this pardon bill, for that is really what it is, the brewers would have abided by the arrangement made by Anton Stuever, who represented the brewers, and in a conference with Governor Dockery and Judge Williams, the Governor's counsel, promised that an amount based upon a fee of 10 cents per barrel would be paid. Until the Supreme Court passes on our motion for a rehearing we will do nothing in the matter.

"Why Governor Dockery has not signed the bill and its companion measure providing for a reduction of the fees to one-half what they are in the original bill I am not prepared to say. Should the Supreme Court refuse us a rehearing that will establish the validity of the law so far as it is concerned. What action we will take in that event I am not prepared to say. Should the measures passed by the last General Assembly not become laws and the Supreme Court decide against us after that, all the State on whatever beer has been sold. bly not become laws and the Supreme Court decide against us after that, all the State can do is to proceed to collect the penalties on whatever beer has been sold. Such money, if collected, would go to the countles for the schools, roads and bridges, and not a cent of it would go into the State Treasury, as would have been the case had the pardon measure become a law."

The Supreme Court of Missouri, by a vote of 4 to 3, declared the old law constitutional shortly before the adjournment of the General Assembly. Talk of further proceedings in the United States Supreme Court is said to have caused the lawmakers, at the instigation of Governor Dockery, to pass the companion bills, one providing for a reduction of the inspection fee from 33 to 20 cents a barrel and the other for a compromise at 10 cents a barrel on back taxes.

It was estimated that $220,000 would have been added to the revenues of the State by the payment of the back taxes on a basis of 10 cents a barrel of beer sold. Appropriation bills providing large amounts for certain State institutions have not been signed by Governor Dockery because a part of the revenue with which to satisfy the appropriations would have come from the brewers.

Tenth Ward Improvement Association Protests Against House Taking Such Action.

The Tenth Ward Improvement Association, which is composed of representative business men and property owners, passed resolutions at its meeting, held at Chippewa Hall, corner of Chippewa street and Oregon avenue, Sunday afternoon, protesting against any attempt on the part of the House of Delegates to unseat O. REDUCE THE ARMY, SAYS ALGER Capture of Aguinaldo, He Says, Eliminates Necessity for Soldiers.

New York, April 14.-General Russell A. Alger, as Secretary of War, originated the plan of sending the thousands of prisoners captured in Santiago Province back to Spain, thus successfully solving a difficult problem. Although he is no longer connected with the War Department, he has followed events in the Philippines closely, and made some interesting suggestions regarding them here on Saturday.

General Alger believes that the capture of Aguinaldo has made further aggressive campaigning in the Philippines not only unnecessary but unwise, and he would reduce the troops stationed there, possibly 60,000 men, to just enough to man the garrisons, which at a liberal estimate would not be more than 25,000. "The capture of Aguinaldo," said General Alger, "has vitally changed the conditions in the Philippines, despite what the carpers may say about it. It was an important event. Aguinaldo is clever, and he has been the idol of his people. He has given up the fight, and, as soon as his attitude toward this country is known to his followers, organized resistance will cease.

"We have now about 60,000 men in the Philippines, whose term of service will expire on June 30 next. The expense of mainaining so many men there is heavy, and I believe that the time has now

"We do not need 60.000 troops for garrison purposes. It was estimated by some observers that we would have to keep from 25,000 to 30,000 men in Cuba, and 5.000 have proved enough. The Filipinos are now facing the American army. The time has arrived when they may be pacified and the cessation of the aggressive movement on our part will do much toward building up confidence.

To accomplish this result now we need only enough troops to properly garrison our posts and to prevent disorder.
